

THE TIGER WHO LOVED TO SURF THE COWABUNGA KITTY

Benny the tiger in Tobago observed a young man surfing, and his eyes brightened with excitement.

Benny: I wish to acquire a surfboard and try surfing as well. Where might I locate an old surfboard from the 1960s?

He noticed an individual with multiple surfboards and confidently approached him, inquiring if he could borrow one.

Surfer: "You wish to borrow my surfboard to go surfing? That's awesome! Go ahead. What is your name, tiger?"

Benny was fortunate enough to have a name sticker, which he displayed proudly with his paw.

Surfer: Greetings, Benny! I am eager to see you surf—go for it, tiger!

Surfer: I am Bradley, commonly referred to as Radley.

Benny: It is a pleasure to meet you, Radley.

growls

Their mutual enthusiasm for surfing solidified their bond as best friends for life.

Benny hoped that only Bradley would comprehend him, while Bradley wished he could converse with Benny.

They lived in a hut together, yet Bradley never disclosed to Benny that he had been shipwrecked and that he was the only person on the island.

Weeks went by as they continued to be lost, surfing on the island.

Benny exclaimed, "Cowabunga, dude!
Woo-hoo! Yes, that's what I'm referring to,"
while he rode the waves.

Bradley responded: "Indeed!"

Two ships appeared; I witnessed both of them.

Captain Ship believed he had consumed too much alcohol and failed to notice the tiger surfing.

Captain: Where do you hail from, young man?

Bradley: Malibu, California. This is my companion Benny, a Bengal tiger.

Captain: Greetings, Benny. I am Captain Paddock. What is your name?

Bradley: My name is Bradley.

Captain: Welcome, Bradley. Let us proceed to Trinidad!

Gather your belongings, and let us embark on our journey!

They are currently in transit, making their way to Trinidad.

They were en route to the Trinidad resort and have now finally reached their destination.

Bradley exclaimed, "Radical!" while Benny growled, "Gnarly!"

The captain chuckled.

They are now disembarking from the boat onto the dock.

Man: Welcome to paradise, boys.

Benny growled, "I love it, yes."

Man: Haha, I adore this tiger!

Bradley: He is a surfing tiger.

Man: Now this is something to see.

Bradley: You will love this place—it is genuinely radical.

Another avaricious individual: I am curious if individuals would be willing to pay to witness a surfing tiger?

Man: Oh, please, refrain from suggesting that.

Bradley: What is the price for accommodation here?

Man: If you permit us to lease your surfboards, your lodging will be complimentary, and you will also receive free meals.

Bradley: This is my personal surfboard, and that one belongs to Benny. The remaining boards are available for you to rent out.

Man: Agreed, let us arrange for both of you to have a room on the lower level for Benny, situated nearest to the ocean, so you do not have to transport the boards a long distance.

Bradley: I love it!

The following day, they engaged in surfing, and the tourists were captivated by the surfing tiger. They captured photographs and videos, relishing every moment.

They remarked that the tiger appeared to be genuinely enjoying itself while surfing.

The Oracle fulfilled Benny's desire to converse solely with Bradley, and this occurred while they were surfing.

Benny spent two entire hours out there before finally returning to the shore.

Benny: "Bradley, did you notice the tunnel that the ocean formed?"

Bradley: "Indeed, gnarly! It took you quite a while to start talking, bro."

They proceeded to the buffet where the waiter served Benny as many steaks as he could consume along with a large plate of cheeseburgers.

Benny: "This is paradise, baby, yeah!"

Currently, the two individuals are attending a beach party, and it is Benny's turn to participate in the limbo—he executed it flawlessly!

Benny: How low can I go? Yes, indeed, yes! I am the limbo king!

Everyone bursts into laughter; he is incredibly cool and charming. The audience adores him—he is the Spuds MacKenzie of this gathering.

everyone aspired to be the cool cat in the pictures on the island

Bradley: It appears that your fate is to spread joy to many individuals.

Benny made the decision to ascend the stage and perform a song. Indeed, he was quite inebriated from the beer,

After unintentionally consuming too much, he stood up and sang "Wild Thing" and "Party Town," sparking a frenzy among the crowd.

Subsequently, he chose to leap into the audience and ride the wave of people.

The audience requested an encore, prompting Benny to rise and perform "Mony Mony." The crowd thoroughly enjoyed it, joining in the singing and applauding for additional songs. He ultimately concluded with "Pour Some Sugar On Me" as his final performance, after which everyone decided to end the evening.

The following day, Bradley and Benny awoke suffering from a significant hangover.

Man: I possess a remedy—here is a complimentary breakfast. Whatever that individual provided them was effective.

now they are indulging in breakfast

Benny and Bradley are surfing while everyone departs, including Bradley.

Bradley: I cannot take you along; I will always cherish the enjoyable moments we shared.

Benny bid his final farewells.

Oracle: It is time to go back to heaven. Benny, the waves have been beckoning you.

Benny: Alright

Oracle: Upon your awakening, you will find yourself in paradise in heaven.

The End.